Welcome to Leytonstone Festival 2019

LEYTONSTONE
FESTIVAL 2019

 Leytonstone Festival

www.leytonstonefestival.org.uk

Welcome

Welcome to the 2019 Leytonstone Festival!

With over 40 events, in over 20 venues in just 8 days, we hope that everyone will find something to their tastes. In keeping with the spirit of the Festival over 26 years, you'll have the opportunity to be entertained by many local performers taking the opportunity to showcase their talents!

And if, when you're enjoying a gig or play or whatever performances you choose, remember that the main purpose of the Leytonstone Festival is to provide entertainment, a little enjoyable education but mainly for everyone to have fun!

Bring your family, bring your friends and make the 2019 Festival yet another record breaker!

The Trustees wish to thank the Festival sponsors and supporters:
The National Lottery, Leytonstone Tavern, London Borough of Waltham Forest and The Stow Brothers.

Enjoy your festival!

Jessie Rose and Romy Deighton

Jessie Irvin Rose is a solo singer songwriter whose performances have been described as "transcendent", "soulful" and "a piece of art" (Soul Stripped Sessions). Her music has been commended by Radio 6's Edith Bowman as "stunning". With inspiration drawn from Kate Bush to Moses Sumney, to Rufus Wainwright, a Neo-soul piano genre is born. Romy Deighton is a singer song writer from Chingford who has performed at many gigs and open mic nights and most recently sung for the judges of The Voice 2019.

Leytonstone Playreading Group in Mrs Warren's Profession by G.B.Shaw

The Leytonstone Library Playreading Group present a staged play reading with costumes and scenery of Mrs Warren's Profession, a 1902 early feminist shocker by Bernard Shaw, with Jenny Runacre in the title role. What is Mrs Warren's profession? Why does her daughter Vivie, a very modern cigar-smoking young Edwardian woman, find it so objectionable? Who is her father and will she marry the Rector's son? Join us on Monday 2nd September at 7.30 to find out. After over eighty years we still welcome free audiences and performers to the Leytonstone Library Theatre Hall on the second Monday evening of most months.

East Side Jazz Club presents Henry
Lowther's Still Waters

Henry Lowther has been playing jazz since the mid sixties. He even played at Woodstock! He has been at the forefront of British jazz ever since. His band Still Waters has been going since 1997. As a result Still Waters is now one of the most accomplished, tightly ensembled and creative bands around. Although a classic quintet of two front line & rhythm, Still Waters plays radical and original music, ranging from gentle, quietly pastoral and melodic music, reflecting the band's name, through to dynamic, free improvisation. www.eastsidejazzclub.blogspot.com

Lakehouse Bell at The Wanstead Tap

The Lakehouse Bell are Chris Smallwood (guitar, vocals) and Steve Arnold (cello). They hail from Leytonstone and Forest Gate in East London, while their origins are by the rivers Trent and Medway.

Their music is forged by influences from Bert Jansch to the Banshees, from Joy Division to Scott Walker, from Fairport Convention to Dub, from Kraftwerk to John Barry to Bach and back again.

The result is a soulful folk with a country groove on the surface, and a tale to tell from within, as Chris’s vocals and guitar play out songs of lyrical reflections on modern living, of the urban and mundane, of humour, people & places, while Steve’s cello pushes and pulls the beat in a decadent waltz with neo-classical and upright cello bass.

Freedom Walk : Leytonstone's Connections to Emancipation and Slavery of Empire

A guided walkabout from St.John's Churchyard to Leytonstone House and Quaker House, connecting the trail from Empire, Emancipation to Windrush legacy.

What did the Buxton family, William Wilberforce and others have in common with the slave trade's abolition and history. Horace Waller missionary and campaigner once lived at the Leytonstone Vicarage (now Matalan) where Abdullah Susi and a former child slave, James Chuma once lived for a spell in 1874. What mission were they engaged on?
